What is Organic wine?

Organic wine is made from grapes that have been grown without the use of chemical fertilizers, pesticides, fungicides and herbicides.

Winemaking techniques should be organic as well; little or no manipulation of wines by reverse osmosis, excessive filtration, or flavor additives (such as oak chips). Many organic winemakers also prefer wild yeasts for fermentation.

What is Biodynamic wine?

The term "Biodynamic" refers to an agricultural movement that gained ground in the 1920s and was defined by Dr. Rudolf Steiner, a professor and philosopher from Austria. The goal of Biodynamics© is to get a vineyard, a farmyard or a backyard to be largely self-sustaining, utilizing waste products from one zone as fuel for another area. Vines grown under a Biodynamic© management system, are viewed not as a single "row of vines" but as a small (albeit vital) piece of the whole vineyard structure. It's been said that Biodynamics© look at the vineyard or farm as a "living, breathing organism" itself from the soil to the sun, all striving for a well-balanced ecosystem that is self-sustaining.

What is Vegan wine?

In the process of producing a wine, many producers use fining agents that help to clarify their final product. Some of these fining agents include animal products. Other wine producers use products such as compressed paper, clay, and other plant-based and alternative fining agents that don't require the use of animal-derived ingredients.
